

SHANE LEAN

Shane is 20 and lives in Bodmin

I sadly lost my father when I was young, and my mum and I didn't really have a good relationship. I was a naughty child and was kicked out of home. I never liked school much. I was seen as a 'problem child' and ended up getting expelled. When I did attend, I didn't want to learn – I was only there to cause trouble. I've tried a few trades since leaving school, from building to painting and decorating, but I never really liked any of them. I also tried to get into the army but I failed my medical and it's then when I started to get into serious trouble. I'm over the moon to be on this course because I really really want to be a top chef one day and I know that this is a step in the right direction.
